Excerpt: . Ill The Real Thing--And Truly Bural PRIVATE MULVANEY, who was a corpril wanst but rayjooiced afterwards, is quoted by Mr. Kipling as saying, No more will I name places, for a man is thracked by a place. Accordingly, you will gain little by searching the B gosh Belt of New England for the taown o Thorpe (population 350) where I supplied the pulpit for four Sundays preceding my ordination to the ministry at large. I should hate to be thracked, for I mean to be frank about Thorpe. It should never have been built. Lost among the hills, where farming by machinery is out of the question, it has been drained of its best people for years and years by the thriving valley-towns and the still more thriving West. All the plucky, ambitious, aggressive spirits have got out. It is a victim of...
