Excerpt: .successfully with aconite and belladonna. RANUNCULUS. 221 As a stimulant to the cerebro-spinal centers, its use is very important. In many forms of disease, especially in the advanced stages, we find an impaired innervation, preventing functional activity, or its restoration and continuance by the use of remedies. It is essential to success that innervation be increased, not temporary by the use-of simulants, but somewhat permanently. This we accomplish by the administration of small doses of Quinine (grs. Q to grs. ij). Even here, we find it necessary to observe the rules for its administration already noticed--the patient must be prepared for its use. It favorably influences the nutrition of the nerve centers, and hence is employed in the treatment of chronic disease with enfeebled innervation, with marked advantage. There are two classes of chronic disease in which it is useful--the one in which...
